

ABSTRACT

A method and an arrangement in a data communications system. The object of the invention is to achieve a wireless communication between a processing unit and a printer using a safe transmission and an increased transmission range compared 5 to the infrared transmission. The solution is a way of printing a document in a data communications system using a protocol profiled for printing in the Bluetooth protocol architecture.